

SYCOR AMERICAS Inc. consultant James Boltz delivers presentation at ASUG Annual Conference at the Orange County Convention Center in Orlando, Florida, May 16th through 19th, 2010.

For Immediate Release:

Pittsburgh, PA- June 30, 2010- James Boltz, a consultant for Sycor Americas delivered a presentation during a session at the ASUG conference in Orlando Florida. His presentation involved an overview of project management challenges associated with SAP upgrades.

Boltz introduced Sycor to the attendees with a brief overview and an explanation of the company's goals. His presentation focused on the main purpose for an SAP upgrade. He described the risks and challenges involved with an SAP upgrade, as well as the ways you can avoid issues during implementation.

Boltz described his senior SAP consultant experience, stating "In more than ten years of SAP Project Management experience, I've learned that "Artificial intelligence is no match for natural stupidity", or more to the point, Project Management is no match for a project poorly managed."

The ASUG Annual Conference is held annually in Orlando, Florida, and gives attendees the chance to learn about cost-saving strategies, implementation, and functionality for a wide range of SAP solutions. The conference allows attendees access to the SAP customer community, all in one place.
